

Scottie Reid is a licensed attorney and the Deputy Director of Alternative Dispute Resolution (ADR) Programs in the Maryland Court of Special Appeals. Ms. Reid has nine years of mediation experience, specializing in workplace and domestic disputes. Prior to joining the Court of Special Appeals, she was a member of the Adjunct Faculty of the University of Baltimore School of Law, where she taught courses in Mediation Skills and Interviewing, Negotiation and Counseling Skills. Additionally, Ms. Reid has extensive experience in the area of child welfare law as an Assistant Attorney General representing Maryland's Department of Human Resources. In that capacity, she litigated administrative appeals, provided training to clients and stakeholders on child welfare issues, and drafted policies, regulations and legislation. Ms. Reid has also represented abused and neglected children and their parents as an attorney with the Legal Aid Bureau, the Office of the Public Defender and the Maryland Disability Law Center. She also represented Baltimore City in workers' compensation appeals. Prior to practicing in Maryland, Ms. Reid was an Assistant District Attorney in Norfolk County, Massachusetts and in private practice in Honolulu, Hawaii.

Ms. Reid received her Bachelor of Arts degree from Boston College in 1975 and her J.D. from the University of Maryland, School of Law in 1982. She is a member of the bar in Maryland, Massachusetts and Hawaii.